

I am for the Consumers Bankers Association to have to adhere to the NO CALL policies. There are two reasons for this. First, if you open it up for them, then others will want to do the same until the policy is totally eroded. Second, if I go to all of the trouble of changing my banking to another bank, it is very unlikely that I will switch back no matter how many toasters they give me.